
Schriftliche Abiturprüfung Grundkursfach Englisch

- E R S T T E R M I N -

Material für den Prüfungsteilnehmer

Allgemeine Arbeitshinweise

Ihre Arbeitszeit (einschließlich der Zeit für Lesen und evtl. Auswählen von Aufgaben) beträgt 210 Minuten.

Die Prüfungsarbeit besteht aus den zu bearbeitenden Teilen A und B.

Zeitliche Orientierung und organisatorischer Ablauf:

Teil A	Text
A 1	Text production	ca. 120 min
	A 1.1 Comprehension / Analysis / Interpretation
	A 1.2 Comment
A 2	Language	ca. 30 min
Teil B	Translation	ca. 60 min

1. Die Reihenfolge für die Bearbeitung der Aufgaben ist freigestellt. Bei der Textproduktion dürfen nicht mehr als vier aufeinander folgende Wörter unverändert aus der Vorlage übernommen werden. Treffende Zitate sind als solche zu kennzeichnen.
2. Zählen Sie die Wörter der beiden Teilbereiche von A 1. Der Gesamtumfang der Textproduktion soll mindestens 400 Wörter betragen.
3. Bei der Übersetzung ist zu beachten: Zusätzliche, z. B. in Klammern angegebene Übersetzungsvarianten gehen nicht in die Wertung ein.
4. Die einzelnen Aufgabenteile sind deutlich sichtbar zu kennzeichnen und voneinander zu trennen.

Erlaubte Hilfsmittel:

- Einsprachiges Wörterbuch Englisch
- Wörterbuch der deutschen Rechtschreibung

Prüfungsinhalt

Teil A: Text

Caught in Memories

1 She was hurrying along Pennsylvania Avenue, a block from the White House, shivering in the cold December wind, when she heard the terrifying, ear-splitting scream of air-raid sirens and then the sound of a bomber plane overhead, ready to unload its cargo of death. She stopped, frozen, engulfed in a red mist 5 of terror.

Suddenly she was back in Sarajevo, and she could hear the shrill whistle of the bombs dropping. She closed her eyes tightly, but it was impossible to shut out the vision of what was happening all around her. The sky was ablaze, and she was deafened by the sounds of automatic-weapons fire, roaring planes, 10 and the wump of deadly mortar shells. Nearby buildings erupted into showers of cement, bricks, and dust. Terrified people were running in every direction, trying to outrace death.

From far, far away, a man's voice was saying, 'Are you all right?'

15 Slowly, warily, she opened her eyes. She was back on Pennsylvania Avenue, in the bleak winter sunlight, listening to the fading sounds of the jet plane and the ambulance siren that had triggered her memories.

'Miss – are you all right?'

She forced herself back to the present. 'Yes. I'm – I'm fine, thank you.'

20 He was staring at her. 'Wait a minute! You're Dana Evans. I'm a big fan of yours. I watch you on WTN every night, and I saw all your broadcasts from Yugoslavia.' His voice was filled with enthusiasm. 'It must have been really exciting for you, covering that war, huh?'

25 'Yes.' Dana Evans's throat was dry. Exciting to see people blown to shreds, to see the bodies of babies thrown down wells, bits of human jetsam flowing down a river of red. [...]

Dana Evans had returned from Yugoslavia just three months earlier. The memories were still too fresh. It seemed unreal to walk down streets in broad 30 daylight without fear, to hear birds singing and people laughing. There had been no laughter in Sarajevo, only the sounds of exploding mortars and the anguished screams that followed.

35 John Donne was right, Dana thought. [...] We share the same moments of time. The universal second hand starts its unforgiving sweep toward the next minute:

In Santiago, a ten-year-old girl is being raped by her grandfather ...

In New York City, two young lovers are kissing by candlelight ...

In Flanders, a seventeen-year-old girl is giving birth to a crack baby ...

[...]

40 All this and infinitely more in the space of sixty seconds, Dana thought. And then time ticks on until it finally sends us into the same unknown eternity.

45 [...] Dana had grown up as an army brat, the daughter of a colonel who traveled from base to base as an armament instructor, and that kind of life had given 50 Dana a taste for adventure. She was vulnerable and at the same time fearless, and the combination was irresistible. During the year that Dana had covered the war in Yugoslavia, people all over the world were spellbound by the beautiful, young, impassioned woman broadcasting in the middle of battle, risking her life to report on the deadly events occurring around her. Now, wherever she went, she was aware of signs and whispers of recognition. Dana Evans was embarrassed by her celebrity.

[...]

55
(547 words)

60 From:
Sidney Sheldon, The Sky Is Falling, Harper Collins Publishers, London, 2000,
pp. 3-6.

A 1 Text production

A 1.1 COMPREHENSION / ANALYSIS / INTERPRETATION

Answer in complete English sentences.

- | | |
|--|-------------|
| 1.1.1 Describe the setting of the excerpt. | 3 BE |
| 1.1.2 Find characteristics that made the protagonist a successful journalist. | 3 BE |
| 1.1.3 Explain the ambiguous use of the word “exciting” in the text.
(lines 21/22, 23) | 4 BE |
| 1.1.4 Identify stylistic techniques the author uses to show how deeply Dana has been traumatised by her war experiences. | 2 BE |
| 1.1.5 Interpret the title of the text. | 3 BE |

Inhalt: 15 BE

A 1.2 COMMENT

Choose one of the following topics.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1.2.1. “Dana Evans was embarrassed by her celebrity.” (lines 51/52)
Choose one or two examples and discuss the pros and cons of being a famous person. | |
| 1.2.2 “War reporting is a form of unwanted sensation-seeking journalism.”
Comment on the statement. | |
| 1.2.3 The decision for a job is always influenced by a variety of factors.
Discuss the aspects that affect ones choice. | |

Inhalt: 10 BE

Erreichbare BE-Anzahl (Summe A 1.1 und A 1.2):

Inhaltliche Leistung:	25 BE
Sprachrichtigkeit:	20 BE
Ausdrucksvermögen:	10 BE
	55 BE

A 2 Language

A 2.1 VOCABULARY

- 2.1.1 Explain the underlined expressions in the given context.
- a) "Nearby buildings erupted into showers of cement, bricks, and dust." lines 10/11) 1 BE
 - b) "... had triggered her memories." (line 16) 1 BE
 - c) "..., she was aware of signs and whispers of recognition." (line 51) 1 BE
- 2.1.2 Substitute the underlined words. Keep to the context.
- a) "... trying to outrage death." (line 12) 1 BE
 - b) "..., covering that war, huh?" (line 22) 1 BE
- 2.1.3 Find the opposite of the underlined words.
- a) "She was vulnerable ..." (line 46) 1 BE
 - b) "... was embarrassed by her celebrity." (lines 52/53) 1 BE

A 2.2 GRAMMAR

- 2.2.1 Transform into the active.
"..., and she was deafened by the sounds of automatic-weapons fire, ..."
- (lines 8/9) 1 BE
- 2.2.2 Add the correct question tag.
"You're Dana Evans."
- (line 19) 1 BE
- 2.2.3 Transform the following sentence into reported speech.
"I watch you on WTN every night, and I saw all your broadcasts from Yugoslavia."
Begin with: He told her....
- (lines 20/21) 2 BE
- 2.2.4 Transform into the passive.
"... it finally sends us into the same unknown eternity."
- (line 41) 1 BE
- 2.2.5 Rewrite the phrase without using the participle constructions.
"..., risking her life to report on the deadly events occurring around her."
- (lines 49/50) 2 BE
- 2.2.6 Complete the following sentence using ideas from the text.
If Dana hadn't been to Sarajevo, ...
- 1 BE

Erreichbar: 15 BE

Teil B: Translation

The Importance of Teacher Attitudes Towards the Mass Media

- 1 Teachers, like most Americans, have a love-hate relationship with the mass media. Teachers appreciate the instantaneous access to current events, the comfort of programming choices, and the pleasures of using television to relax, 5 they also have a number of important concerns about television and the rest of media culture. Many fear the ways in which celebrity culture has changed the kinds of role models for youth. Some are concerned about increasing materialism, or the representation of men and women in the media. Many bemoan the sensationalism that always seems to bombard viewers. Some are made 10 anxious by the seemingly inherent passivity involved in using electronic media, or the propaganda embedded in newspapers, magazines, television programs and the internet.

(129 words)

15

From:

The Uses (and Misuses) of Mass Media Resources in Secondary Schools

<http://interact.uoregon.edu/mediaLit/mlr/readings/articles/hobbs/uses.html>

[download/8 Jan 2004]

Erreichbare BE-Anzahl: 20